

THE CAUSE

We've come a long way in caring for and curing children with cancer. Only 20 years ago, 70 per cent of all children diagnosed with cancer died. Today, more than 75 per cent of them survive, but the battle is far from over.

Each year in BC, about 130 new cases of childhood cancer are diagnosed – the equivalent of five classrooms full of kids. Although we are saving more lives than ever before, one classroom will still not survive this devastating disease. Caregivers and researchers in the Pediatric Oncology programs at BC Children's Hospital are working hard to prevent this.

This is where you come in. Funds raised through HSBC Childrun go towards critical research into the causes and treatment of childhood cancer. By collecting donations and being a part of HSBC Childrun, you are also helping us learn more about childhood cancer with the goal of finding a cure.

Your support will help save even more children's lives. Thank you for doing your part for BC kids.
